A Well-known Man Drowned.
R. W. Swift, of Keyser, was drowned Saturday while trying to ford New Creek near Reese's tannery, six miles up the valley from Keyser. Mr. Swift had been away from home for several days and was on his way back when the accident occurred. New Creek had been very high for several days from recent heavy rains throughout the valley. It is supposed the bank had washed away before he made the attempt. His body was found about one mile and a half from the ford. Mr. Swift was about fifty-five years old. He leaves a wife and six children. He has been a justice of the peace for a number of years. He was well known throughout Hardy, Hampshire, Grant and Mineral counties.

A BIG CONSOLIDATION.

THE UNITED NAILERS TO RETURN

To the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers—Petitions to that End in Circulation, and Action to be Solicited by the Nailers.

A vague and unauthorized rumor has been heard for some time that the United Nailers, Heaters and Rollers' Association of America was desirous of returning to the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers. Inquiries of the officers of either association met with the uniform response, "There's nothing in it." The rumor has now ceased to be a rumor and taken on the shape of a definite statement, and while as yet no official action has been taken, there is every reason to believe that the United Nailers will, at the coming convention of the Amalgamation, to be held in Pittsburgh this month, be taken back into the fold which its members left a year ago.

Many people outside the ranks of the iron workers remember that when the split took place several nailers protested strongly and maintained their allegiance to the nailers' union, and in fact, they were the only ones who did so.

Among these was Mr. W. N. Linch, who was a trustee of the association, and he is the accredited leader in the movement to gain unity the two associations.

A VERY MEATY MATTER

OF STATE AND NEARBY NEWS.

Sensations in Several Counties of West Virginia—Violent Deaths in Different Forms—Would-be Assassins Foiled. Mad Men Again—Other News.

I have been making some suggestions to the people of Wheeling, and as I have my hand in, I would remark to them that this is the age of progress, of enlightened civilization, of independent enterprises. Competition in the law of municipal existence, and it is not always the most meritorious wins the prize; often it is the more energetic, the more forward, the more resolute. A city may possess all the natural advantages possible, but if it is backward, it makes no effort to force them into utility and develop their possibilities of accomplishment into existing certainties, they will remain latent, be passed by unnoticed and unappreciated, and places far less favored will be chosen. Wheeling is situated in the center of one of the best agricultural regions in America, so far as agricultural products are concerned. Then, on the other hand, is the magnificent Ohio river, giving her cheap transportation to the ocean, and a substantial and progressing section in the country; and on the other hand are her railway connections, radiating over four great trunk lines to every point of the compass. She has demonstrated her ability to compete and stand on her own feet, and she is now ready to make a further demonstration that she is equal to all demands in the way of enlightened modern progress that may be made upon her. A whole country is looking to her for a model, and she is now ready to make a further demonstration that she is equal to all demands in the way of enlightened modern progress that may be made upon her.

George Dahmer, a lunatic confined in the Pendleton County jail, committed suicide by hanging himself. He was a quiet man and leaves a family.

The W. V. C. & P. Road (Henry G. Davis's road) has secured Col. W. E. Porter to superintend the construction of its extension to Cumberland.

A day or two since an unknown woman, about 50 years old, was run over by a Baltimore & Ohio freight train at Deer Park and killed. Both legs were cut off.

John Poe was instantly killed in the Thomas mine, Tucker county, by having his head caught between a car and the track. He was married at Kewbottom a few weeks ago.

Richard Canty, who resides near Piedmont, while under the influence of liquor was struck by a caboose in the yard at Keyser, and fatally injured. He leaves a wife and six children.

George Burns, a resident of Tucker county, was killed while working on a down hill in a lumber clearing when he was overtaken by a large rolling log and instantly killed. He was about 23 years old.

Rev. Father Duffy, of the Lewisburg Catholic Church, a brother of State Auditor Duffy, was in Charleston last week for the purpose of attending the annual convention of the White Sulphur Springs.

The old Blackhorse homestead at Manning, with a fine barn and a large warehouse standing near, were destroyed by a fire of incendiary origin. Loss $30,000; no insurance. The property was owned by Frank Blackhorse.

The West Virginia Freeman, the Prohibition organ published at Parkersburg, has changed its name to The Freeman, not that it loves West Virginia less, but hopes to be able to work the Prohibitionists of other States to better advantage.

Mr. Mary Andrews was almost instantly killed two miles west of Piedmont. She was standing on the track when a train struck her, cutting and mangleing her in a horrible manner. She leaves four children and a husband. She was 38 years of age.

A company is being organized by Wm. Sharpe, of Kanawha county, called the Black Diamond Coal Company, to operate the coal mines lately worked by the Macfarlane Coal Company. The stock is owned principally by G. W. Boyd, of Ripley, W. Va., and by Sharpe and other practical men.

Elsworth Riley, aged 30, an employee of the Baltimore & Ohio, jumped from a rapidly moving train as it was entering the bridge at Harper's Ferry, missed his footing, and was precipitated into the Chesapeake Bay, where he drowned. He resided in Loudoun county, Va., and was returning from home.

Preparations had been made for a wedding near White Day, Taylor county, the contracting parties being a young man named Carothers and a daughter of Jacob Brown, but when the wedding was to be celebrated, the bridegroom failed to appear, and he had skipped. The match was declared off.

It has been ascertained that the person who attempted to murder the Misses Bartlett, of Pocahontas county, by firing a shot through the window of the house, in which one of the sisters was lying sick, being attended by the other, was their brother Ledford. The sister who was acting as nurse was wounded in the shoulder. Ledford was arrested. There is said to be a good reason behind that has not yet come out.

At a meeting of the directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal Waterway Company, it was determined that the canal must not be allowed to fall into decay, but must be thoroughly repaired and put in good condition for navigation. A resolution was passed authorizing the directors to advertise for the sale of $100,000 of bonds, for the purpose of putting the canal in navigable condition. The recent floods greatly damaged the canal.

There is now no doubt that the murderer of Frank Heatslow, who was shot while acting as nightwatchman in a tannery near Romney, was a colored man named Ledford. He has been arrested and locked up. In his pockets were found rough slugs, such as were used to shoot Heatslow, and there is much other evidence. It is probable that Bowen supposed that the regular watchman was the murderer, and he was therefore induced to leave home by friends of Ledford, so that he would not be present to testify against them. Money, it is said, was paid him to do this. A few days since he returned, was arrested and put in jail, and will remain until the case is decided.

John W. Price, of Wayne county, aged about 40, married, a man of considerable means and exemplary conduct, eloped last week with Mrs. Nicholas Wort, aged about 20, and the mother of two small children. She is said to be a very pretty girl, and was induced to elope by the prospect of a fortune. Her husband was a tenant of Price's, and he was induced to elope by the prospect of a fortune. Her husband was a tenant of Price's, and he was induced to elope by the prospect of a fortune.

The Graton Standard says: "According to the Register Home. Sep. Hall was removed from the office of deputy Revenue Collector this week and George Baird, a Republican of Wheeling, appointed in his place. The Standard says that George Baird is a red-hot Democrat of the most approved Camden stripe. The Standard is not a Camden sheet, and possibly holds Camden Democrats and Republicans in the same estimation."

The Parkersburg Sentinel, a stalwart Democratic journal says: "If Dr. Baird has said anything that is so sorry for, it is that he has said that he is a Democrat. By his usual plow and, and go over and lay down in the shade and enjoy a right healthy laugh."
